Education and Career Opportunities System

Find a Path for Your Future in Six Easy Steps

step 1

think about who you are.

ECOS has tools that help you figure out what your interests, values, and abilities are and then matches that information up to potential careers, majors, and good match colleges. Set up your personal Portfolio in ECOS to get started.

step 2

explore your many options.

"What do you want to be when you grow up?" doesn't have to be a hard question. Research more than 900 career profiles and 300 college majors in ECOS to help you understand your options. Then use the Career Search tool to find careers that match your interests and skills.

choose the right school.

Browse through more than 5,400 colleges to see which ones offer what you want in a school including where it's located, whether it's urban or rural, big or small, highly competitive or moderately competitive, and much more.

prepare for the tests.

Many schools require that you take the SAT or ACT to be considered for admission. Visit ECOS to learn about the tests and take practice exams so you are prepared for the real thing.

step 5

locate scholarships.

Help offset the high cost of college tuition by applying for any of the more than 900,000 different scholarships found in ECOS. With all these choices, one has to match you!

become a professional.

In the real world, you need a resume to get a job. Use the ECOS Resume Builder to create a professional resume and cover letter, which you can use to apply for internships, too.

Log in and check out your future!
